DANIEL MILLER SHOT IN HOTEL

Former Proprietor of Hotel Gettysburg Shot Down by Negro Waiter whom he had Discharged. Affair Took Place in Harrisburg.

Daniel Miller, formerly proprietor of the Hotel Gettysburg, was shot at the Dauphin Hotel, Harrisburg, at 7.40 Tuesday evening by a negro waiter, Leon Gilbert, whom he had discharged during the evening. He sustained four bullet wounds but only one of them was dangerous and a telephone message from the Harrisburg Hospital this afternoon stated that Mr. Miller was getting along well, considering the seriousness of the injury, and that his condition was favorable.

Four shots were fired but only one of the bullets lodged in Miller's body and this was embedded in his left chest, just above the heart. Owing to the hotel man's weakened condition it was impossible to remove the bit of lead at the Harrisburg Hospital where he was taken after the shooting. One of the other bullets penetrated the right hand and the other two grazed his body.

The negro was arrested in Market street, Harrisburg, before his revolver had quit smoking, and while his clothing was on fire as the result of shooting through a pocket. He admitted that the affair had been premeditated to the officer who arrested him.

"I made up my mind to fix him," said the waiter, speaking of the proprietor of the hotel, "and while I didn't intend to kill him, I just wanted to show him that he could not boss me around."

Gilbert was in the second floor dining room at 6.30 o'clock when a stranger came in and took a seat at a table. The table was in the section of the room in which the waiter was working but after taking other dinner orders he went to the kitchen and remained there. After half an hour had elapsed the man got up and started to walk out.

Proprietor Miller seeing that he had not been waited upon, asked the visitor what was the matter.

"Well, I haven't been waited upon," the man replied. "I have been here half an hour and I haven't any time to waste this way. I have work to do."

Miller then went to the kitchen and encountered Gilbert idly leaning against the wall. He asked him about the matter and Gilbert replied:

"I was just tryin' to get that man's order as fast as I could. I can't do no more." "You go right down to the office and get your pay. We don't need you around here any longer," replied Mr. Miller.

The waiter meekly went to the office and after getting his money, he remarked to the cashier, Miss Catherine Fitzpatrick:

"Well, I'll be back again."

Gilbert left the hotel and went to the Lochiel Hotel bar where he asked Charles Boyle, a clerk, for a revolver.

"What do you want a gun for, any way?" inquired the bar clerk.

"I want to shoot a rat."

Boyle refused the request and Gilbert left, saying that he would get a weapon, anyhow. He went to Cohen's pawnbroker shop, he said, where he bought a revolver and some cartridges and then shortly after returned to the Dauphin Hotel.

In the hotel lobby stood Miller, talking to his brother Harry, and W. P. Hastings, of Philadelphia.

"I want an understanding," grumbled the former waiter, breaking into the conversation. "I haven't time to talk to you now; come back in the morning," answered Proprietor Miller.

"If I can't get satisfaction from you now, I'll see that I get it," said the negro, sullenly. Then, with his right hand in his coat pocket he opened fire at his former employer. As he shot he retreated towards the door.

Every bullet struck Miller. The first passed through the right hand of the hotel man and the next two grazed the left side of his chest and left shoulder, leaving flesh wounds. The fourth bullet struck Miller in the chest and brought him down to the floor. Two of the bullets struck the newel post of the balustrade.

Patrolman Buch heard the shots and running across the street, came up to Gilbert just as he reached the car track in the middle of Market street. As he placed the negro under arrest, he found Gilbert's coat on fire.

"Hand over that gun," demanded the patrolman.

"Here, you dare have the gun," said the waiter, handing over the weapon and smothering the incipient flames.

"Whom did you shoot in there?" asked the officer.

"I shot my boss, Dan Miller. He kicked me down stairs because he

BIDS FOR NEW POST OFFICE

Bids for New Federal Building Range from Ninety Seven Thousand to One Hundred and Fifteen Thousand.

Nine bids were opened in the Treasury Department at Washington on Tuesday for the erection of the new federal building at Gettysburg. The bids ranged from $97,000 to $115,000. The contract will not be awarded for about ten days.

The bidders and the kind of stone bid upon were as follows:

John G. Upkefer and Co., Minerva, Ohio, limestone, $98,666; Winchester Engineering Company, New York, limestone, $102,800; sandstone, $106,800; Merricks Fire Proofing Company, New York, $105,000 and $108,000; Newport Construction Company, Newport News, Va., $107,000 and $114,000; W. H. Fissell & Co., New York, $105,000 and $115,000; James G. Doak & Co., Philadelphia, limestone, $99,482; Charles McCann Company, Philadelphia, $102,659 and $108,659; A. B. Stannard, New York, $97,000 and $99,500.

The new building has been secured through the exertions of Congressman D. F. Lefean, of this district, on the plea that the town of Gettysburg deserves some such practical monument to its prominence as the site of the greatest battle of the Civil War.

The structure will be erected of granite, limestone or sandstone of simple but massive design. It will be fronted by six massive columns and a broad tier of steps. The building will be two stories in height, with an ample basement. The first floor and as much of the basement as necessary will be occupied by the post office. A portion of the second floor will be given up to the revenue office, and in keeping with the memorial idea, the remainder of this floor will be occupied by the Battlefield Commission.

GETTYSBURG GIRL ESCAPES DROWNING

From The Harrisburg Patriot—"Edwin D. Crow, 1512 Green street, and Albert S. Gehly, of New York City, who is a guest in the city, yesterday received the congratulations of friends for not losing their heads when their boat shipped water on the Susquehanna Sunday and threatened the lives of their companions, Miss Irene K. Porter, 1502 North Sixth street, and her cousin, Miss Irene Riggs, Gettysburg.

"The party of four were in a rowboat, being towed along by another rowboat. Off Maclay street, the boats were caught in a swirl of water and started to list heavily. Crow, seeing the danger, jumped into the river, and though unable to swim, righted the boat until Gehly came to his assistance and quieted the girls until rescue came. The girls were transferred to another boat, which happened along and were landed at Verbeke street."

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Among the social items in the New York Herald, of Sunday, June 25th, appears the following: "Announcement has just been made of the engagement of Miss Mabel Carnahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Carnahan, of Canton, Ohio, to Mr. Joseph Hendrix Himes, of Baltimore, Md. Miss Carnahan is a sister of Mrs. Rufus Day, of Cleveland, Ohio, daughter-in-law of Justice Day, of the United States Supreme Court."

Both Miss Carnahan and Mr. Himes are well known in this section. Miss Carnahan has visited in New Oxford. Mr. Himes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Himes, of New Oxford.

As I did not wait on a man."

This latter statement was later denied at the hotel.

Miller was hastened to the hospital and, after his wounds had been attended to, an effort was made to probe for the bullet in his chest. This attempt was almost immediately abandoned, owing to the weakened condition of Miller. He remained conscious for the greater part of the night.

Mr. Miller has been the proprietor of the Dauphin for several months, having gone to Harrisburg with his brother from Carlisle where he conducted the Mansion House. He was about fifty six years of age.

The news of the affair was received in Gettysburg with the greatest regret. Mr. Miller was for five or six years proprietor of the Hotel Gettysburg and made a large circle of friends during his residence here, all of whom have been very solicitous concerning his condition since the shooting.

His negro assailant is twenty six years of age and gave his birthplace as Winchester, Virginia.

OPEN house at the Eagles' Home Thursday evening from 7 to 12. Eagles are requested to bring along their friends. Hard shell crabs.

FOURTEEN TRAIN RIDERS CAUGHT

Officers Wilson and Shealer Add Another Sextet of Train Jumpers to those already Caught. Five in Town Lock-up.

Officer Wilson and Chief Shealer continued their crusade against train riders on Tuesday and landed six more offenders in the lockup. One of the men demanded an immediate hearing and was given ten days in the county jail by Squire Hill. The prisoner gave his name as H. Duncan. Sheriff Fissel now has seventeen prisoners of whom nine are train riders while the town lock-up has five similar offenders.

The two officers received word from Highfield that fifteen men were beating their way on the freight, and the west end of town again became the scene of activity. Chief Shealer found his badge under his coat, found three in a box car and they mistook him for one of their own fraternity, offering him a lift. He accepted their assistance and as soon as he was inside the car told them they were under arrest.

The Chief handed them over to Officer Wilson and then went farther back on the train where he found three more, two of whom were between cars. The sextette were quickly marched into town. The five in the lock-up will be given several days imprisonment before they will be allowed to go.

Of the fifteen reported as on the train from Highfield nine were missing when it pulled into the local yards and it is thought they got off outside of town and made a wide circle about Gettysburg to avoid arrest.

ALL BETS OFF

A newspaper dispatch says: Those two old cronies and roommates, Jack Coombs and Eddie Plank, will make no more wagers on their respective standing in the number of games won during the coming season. Last season both, being farmers, wagered a fine cow on the outcome and Coombs won.

Plank and Coombs were sitting together conversing when a reporter sauntered along. Remembering the bet of last year, he said: "Going to make any bets this year?"

"Bets, nothing," snorted Coombs. "Why you know last year if I lost I was going to give Plank one of my fine Guernsey cows. Well, I won. He went out and paid $12 for a beef critter and wanted me to take that. It would cost me only $24 to take her to Maine, and I could have gone out and bought one like her for $8. No, sir, no bets this year with Plank."

"Rats," said Eddie in his own defense, "there was no kind of cow specified and no amount set for her price. What are you kicking about? I'll win more games than you will and I'll make you any bet that you want."

AUTO RUN PLANS

The first car in the run of the Gettysburg Automobile Club to Hagers-town is scheduled to leave the Square at six o'clock Thursday morning, the others following at intervals of two and a half minutes each. Francis Miller will be the checker at Frederick and John W. Brohm at Hagers-town. There will also be a checker at Chambersburg. Those expecting to accompany the run will hold another meeting this evening at 7.30 at the office of John D. Keith, Esq.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.
The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.
It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. For Sale by the People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

THE CUTWORM PEST.
While cutworms do more damage during the month of May than later, a suggestion or two now relative to preventing damage by them will not be out of place. In no season that the writer can remember has the damage in the north central states been so heavy as that which has been inflicted on farmers and gardeners within the past few weeks. Not only has corn on sod ground been badly riddled and had to be replanted, but even worse havoc has been wrought in the town and country garden patch. One gardener in speaking of the matter the other day said that of 1,000 cabbage plants which he had set out the cutworms got all but two. So voracious are they that they have even attacked potato vines. Two things may be done to prevent damage. The stalks of transplanted stuff like cabbages and tomatoes may be protected by wrapping them with a couple of thicknesses of newspaper, allowing the paper to extend an inch below and an inch and a half above the surface of the ground. To poison the worms moisten bran with a solution made by adding one ounce of paris green to four or five gallons of water and thinly scatter while moist close to the stems or stalks of the plants to be protected. The worms are also very fond of green clover or alfalfa, and if this is wet in the poison solution and similarly placed it makes an excellent exterminator. A garden that is thoroughly hoed or cultivated will not suffer as much damage as one that is not, while a further advantage is that the worms may be killed as they are thrown to the surface.

A PURE BRED SIRE LEAGUE.
The department of animal husbandry of the University of Wisconsin has lately set afoot a campaign that is deserving of publicity. It aims at the organization of a nation wide pure bred sire league, a voluntary, non-incorporated association, of which any person may become a member by owning and using a pure bred sire in the production of any of the several kinds of farm animals. The purpose of the organization, as suggested, is the improvement of the live stock of the country by the use of pure bred, registered sires in place of those of grade, scrub or mongrel breeding. Those who join the league pledge themselves so far as is possible to use pure bred sires, to advocate the general use of such sires, to work for the improvement of pure bred sires along the line of breed character and individual excellence and, lastly, to discourage the use of grade, mongrel or scrub sires or sires and dams of whatever breeding that are diseased or unsound in any way. The improvement in the breeding and character of all kinds of farm animals has been marked in the past few years, and there is reason to believe that an organization such as the above will do much toward helping the good work along.

COST OF PRODUCTION HAZY.
The chief lack in the system of accounts kept on the average farm is the uncertainty relative to the cost of production. It's an easy matter to figure out the receipts from a crop of small grain, corn, potatoes or hay at so much per bushel or ton or of live stock at a given price per hundred-weight, but not so simple a matter to figure exact cost of production, including the items of preparation and cultivation of soil, the cost of harvesting, storage, interest on investment, deterioration in equipment, etc. Yet it is only by keeping tab on these and a good many other items that makes it possible for the farm owner to know whether his season's operations have been really profitable or not. It will take some time and attention to keep a set of farm books simply, yet it is well worth while that one may know just where he stands—what operations have been profitable and what followed at a loss.

SHOULD LIVE WITH THE WORMS.
It is hard to have entirely dependent upon the kindness of nature for fertile soil, productive fruit tree, bush and vine, sunshine and rain. It is so narrow and selfish that he will ruthlessly kill the finest and most useful of our song birds because, knowing a good thing when they see it, they take a bit of toll from him in the shape of ripe and luscious berries. Folks of this type ought to be herded by themselves in a territory bug and worm cursed because never visited by our feathered friends and compelled to subsist on what worms and insects leave. They would soon have enough of the business and would return to dwell with civilized folks, thankful for bird life and having a better conception of reciprocity, the square deal and the eternal fitness of things.

Tangle in Senate Sends Measure Back to Committee.

WON'T FIX TIME TO VOTE

Senator Penrose's Attempt to Have Fate of Canadian Reciprocity Decided on July 24 Fails.

Washington, June 28.—The tension that exists in the senate over the reciprocity measure was emphasized by incidents that occurred in the confused proceedings.
The session began with an unsuccessful attempt by Chairman Penrose, of the finance committee, to obtain an agreement for a vote on reciprocity July 24, on the wool bill July 26, and free list bill July 28. Friends of reciprocity will insist upon coupling all three measures in any agreement to vote.

After refusing to permit such an arrangement, the opponents of the reciprocity bill allowed that measure to advance one important parliamentary step before they realized what had happened. For a quarter of an hour the senate was in executive session. At its conclusion, no one being ready to speak on the measure, and following the parliamentary custom of that body, Vice President Sherman announced that the bill would be reported from the committee of the whole to the senate.

Senate Caught Napping.
The bill actually passed through all the stages of being reported to the senate before members realized what was going on. While under consideration in the committee of the whole the measure could be amended, but could not be voted upon. In the senate it could be brought to a final vote at any time. Senators Nelson, Bristow, Clapp and Bailey joined in the protest that arose when it was found what had happened to the bill.

At first Senator Penrose objected to having the measure reinstated in the committee of the whole. He said the senate had shown no disposition to hurry in its consideration of the bill, and had rejected his proposal for a definite time for a vote on the measure. He therefore thought no backward step should be taken.

Friends of the bill on the Democratic side, led by Senators Stone and Bacon, said the senate had evidently been off its guard, and had permitted the bill to be advanced unintentionally. Senator Penrose finally consented to having it restored to its former status.
The feeling that developed over this incident was not so marked as that which greeted Senator Penrose's attempt to fix a time for the vote on the bills. Insurgents objected to any definite date for the reciprocity vote; and the finance committee was estranged from the embarrassing position of having the other votes determined by an objection from Senator Smoot. Several Democrats and insurgents would have welcomed the fixing of the other two dates, so that the tariff bills could be forced up to President Taft ahead of the reciprocity bill and the latter held back as a means of forcing his signature to the others.

The Penrose request will be renewed from time to time and whenever conditions seem favorable. Ultimately the friends of reciprocity may consent to change the order, allowing the vote on the tariff bills to come first, but they will not do so at present, nor in taking this position will they consent for one to go through without the others.

SAVE YOUTH FROM MOB

Police Have Trouble Protecting Lad Accused of Heinous Crime.
Shenandoah, Pa., June 28.—After scouring the town, Chief of Police Manly finally located and captured Simon Lackiewicz, nineteen years old, charged with brutally and criminally assaulting two little girls, Eva Stenklawka, a mute, aged seven years, and Estelka Radziewicz, aged eleven years, east of town.
The fiend was identified by the children. He was given a hearing before Justice Gibson and committed to jail without bail.
The police had difficulty in protecting the prisoner from an angry crowd.

Kills Man and Self.
Richwood, W. Va., June 28.—Granville Johns, fifty years old, in trying to shoot his son and daughter because of their disobedience, accidentally killed R. T. Uiet, twenty-five years old, a boarder. Johns committed suicide on the outskirts of the town in view of hundreds of persons who were pursuing him.

CHEAP CANDY KILLS GIRL

Died of Ptomaine Poisoning a Few Hours After Eating It.
Chester, Pa., June 28.—As the result of ptomaine poisoning, which developed a few hours after she had eaten candy, Mary Evans, one and a half years old, died in the Crozier hospital.
She and her sister, Ida Evans, two and a half years old, were admitted to the institution together. The latter is recovering.

The girls bought ten cents' worth of cheap candy. They were seized with violent vomiting spells during the night. Dr. Robert S. Maison, who was summoned, says:
"Of course, it is not always possible in these cases to ascertain the truth, but this looks very suspicious, and I believe it is a case for investigation. The coloring matter shows every indication that it caused the ptomaine poisoning."

Washington, June 28.—Before leaving for Indianapolis to continue his investigation into the McNamara kidnapping case, President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, intimated that no apology from John Mitchell, Frank Morrison, or himself would be forthcoming in connection with the ruling of Judge Wright, of the District supreme court, directing them to show cause by July 17 why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

MOB IN CLEVELAND LYNCHES A NEGRO

Kills Him in Street After He Shot Man on Car.

Cleveland, O., June 28.—A negro was killed in this city by a mob. The negro came into the city from Deshann, a village in the western part of the county, and fatally shot John Decker, who lives in Deshann.
The negro had been stealing Decker's cherries. Decker chased him away. The negro said he would get even with him. The negro followed him into the city and caught up with Decker at the barns of the Lorain avenue car line.

The negro pulled a revolver and shot Decker. The wounded man was rushed to St. John's hospital on Detroit street. It is said he cannot live.
In the meantime a crowd had gathered. When the men saw Decker fall there was great excitement. The negro ran and the crowd followed, yelling "Lynch him!"

Several in the crowd pulled their revolvers and fired. The negro was hit and fell dead.

STORM ADJOURNS SENATE

Terrific Downpour of Rain and Hail Halts Business.

Washington, June 28.—For the first time within the memory of Capitol attaches the senate was adjourned by a violent electrical storm, accompanied by a terrific downpour of rain and hailstones.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, was addressing the senate when the storm broke. He found himself unable to proceed because of the confusion outside. After he had attempted several times to continue his remarks, Senator Gallinger moved an adjournment. Senator Borah was speaking on the reciprocity bill.

MORMON CHIEF ON THE STAND

Joseph Smith Tells of Deals With Sugar Trust.

NOW THE CHURCH GOT IN

Many Women Hear Prophet Tell How His Church Is Tied Up With Big Combine.

Washington, June 28.—The story of the alliance of the Mormon church and the Heary O. Havemeyer interests in the beet sugar business was told and the deal characterized as entirely legal by Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church and of the Utah-Idaho Sugar company, before the house "sugar trust" investigating committee.

A score or more women were present. Mr. Smith was escorted to the committee room by Bishops Thomas R. Cutler and C. N. Nibley, R. W. Young, a grandson of Brigham Young, and Representative Joseph Howell, the only Mormon member of the house.

The head of the church explained how Mormon affairs are conducted, how its funds come principally from the tithes of its people, how they are systematically accounted for. He asserted that the interests of the Mormon people are safeguarded at all times.

Mr. Smith testified that it was not the general practice of the church to make business investments, that the sugar business was its largest investment, and that was entered upon to help the Mormon people. He emphatically denied that the church had any stock in the American Sugar Refining company.

"Why haven't you folks bought out the Havemeyer interests?" asked Representative Baker, of California. "We haven't the money."

"You knew Havemeyer was a very powerful man in the business world and you were glad to get him interested in your business, weren't you?" "We were only interested in getting his money."

"Have you any official connection with the Utah-Idaho Sugar company?" asked Mr. Hardwick. "I am president of the company," replied Mr. Smith.

"Do you own any stock?" "Yes, sir; I own about 5000 shares individually."

"Do you own any stock in a representative capacity?" "Yes; I hold 49,815 shares for the church. The title is held in the name of Joseph F. Smith, trustee."

How Mormon Church Got In.

Mr. Smith said the church became interested in the Utah Sugar company when many people who subscribed failed to pay for the stock, and the company, under bond to complete a beet sugar factory, was unable to do it. The church was appealed to by the stockholders to assist, which it did, to the extent of $50,000.

"Does the Utah-Idaho company pay dividends?" "Yes; seven per cent."

"How is that dividend used by the church?" "In promoting its religious interests."

He seemed to know little of the Havemeyer proposition. It was negotiated, he thought, by Thomas R. Cutler, a Mormon and manager of the Utah-Idaho company.

Mr. Smith could give no figures as to the cost per pound of beet sugar, the cost of machinery and the number of acres in cultivation.

"Does it regard this combination as being in restraint of trade?" "I regard it as being extension of trade. It has enhanced the value of our farms; it has made possible the cheaper production of beets, and it has proved one of the greatest blessings ever visited upon Utah and Idaho. I do not think that the combine has increased the price of sugar to the consumer one bit."

Mr. Smith volunteered the information that the church had borrowed money to help out the Utah Sugar company. "The church had a bonded indebtedness then of $1,000,000," he said, "but we borrowed more to help out the sugar industry, that had not up to that time been successful."

"How was the money borrowed?" "By the church through me as trustee."

"Didn't the secretary of the Utah-Idaho company often write to Havemeyer as your direction?" asked Mr. Baker. "Never," said Mr. Smith. "I don't think I ever had but one letter from Henry Havemeyer in my life."

BAN JOHNSON AFTER GAMBLERS

American League Head Starts Crusade on Baseball Betting.

EVIL THREATENS THE PASTIME

Club Officials Ought to See That Practice Is Smothered at Once to Insure Safety of Game—Plenty of Betting in Detroit and Chicago.

By TOMMY CLARK.
At last steps have been taken to combat the gambling menace to baseball, and heroic efforts to stamp out betting within and outside the parks of the American league will be made at once by the organization in a body.

Ban Johnson recently sent out a bulletin to every American league manager calling attention to the prevalence of betting and asking each club owner to enforce to the letter the provision in the constitution prohibiting betting. Not alone this, but he has informed the police departments of the different cities of gambling on the games.

President Johnson figures that in order to discourage the gamblers it may be necessary to place under arrest every person caught making bets at a ball park.

Now that the American league executive has come out strongly against gambling at baseball games at ball parks and on the outside it is up to President Tom Lynch of the National league to issue an edict against gambling, and the national commission ought to get together and put it up to the club owners to stamp out gambling or take the consequences.

Ban Johnson's crusade grows out of a report that much gambling is being indulged in at Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia and Boston. It has been said that there is a lot of betting in New York, but the betting done in New York is nothing compared to what is done at Pittsburgh.

In New York your neighbor may say, "I'll bet you $2 that the New Yorks get off in front and stay there," or if there is a man near you who is a roofer for the visiting team you will get sore because he is rooting against you and bet him $5 that he is rooting for a "dead one," or vice versa.

Now, this is not the betting evil that Ban Johnson refers to. He, talking straight from the shoulder—and when he gives vent to these utterances he knows what he is talking about—is biting at a bookmaking element. He has learned that "bookies" is being done on the games in Chicago and in Detroit. He also knows that Pittsburgh has an element that "books" on every game. What he fears is that if measures are not taken at once to stamp out this evil the bookmakers will invade the baseball parks, and if this comes to pass it won't be long before the game will be in bad repute.

Last spring the gamblers attempted to make a book on the two pennant races. Odds were published on the different teams, but the government soon put them out of business. Acting on a request from Ban Johnson recently, the Detroit police began a campaign against gambling on ball games. On the first day they found a dozen or more places where boards giving odds were shown and books made on various games.

Many years ago betting came near killing baseball, for it became known that some of the ball players were in league with the gamblers, throwing the games or trying to win them, as the betting demanded. The managers, fearing out the guilty ones, black-listed them and then framed rules to safeguard the game against a repetition of the scandal. How well they succeeded is best told by the great popularity of the game today, for baseball has grown and developed until it is indeed the great national pastime, equaled by no other game that was

Ban Johnson has sounded the keynote, and it is up to heads of the various leagues and club owners to join the movement. If this is not done, then baseball will lose its popularity. Hottest competition always will receive the patronage of the better class of citizens. That is why at a baseball game you always find our law abiding citizens.

Ideal Baseball Manager Is Found.
At last the ideal baseball manager has been discovered. He is Dan O'Neill, manager and owner of the Connecticut league team representing New Britain, who has shown that he has a realistic sense of what is due to the patrons of baseball who pay their quarters to see his team in action. A game between New Britain and Springfield, won by the former 11 to 10, was so poorly played that at its conclusion Manager O'Neill had the announcement made from the diamond that spectators on the way out of the grounds would be given rain checks good for the next home game.

There is no more sly and spry enemy of the birds than the brutal and graceful small red squirrels that frequent the lawns and parks of almost every town and city. It may be tough treatment, but the writer favors shooting these wretches on sight, for they perform no service that in any way compensates for their ruthless destruction of eggs and young birds.

WILL HARVEST SMALL

POX VICTIM'S CROPS

Health Officer Snowberger, who accompanied Dr. B. F. Royer, chief medical inspector of the state, to the Tomstown district, Monday, made arrangements, before his return, for the harvesting of Charles O. Bonner's wheat crop and for looking after his hay and fruit crops until Mr. Bonner is released from quarantine.

Nine members of Mr. Bonner's family are ill with the disease although some are afflicted only mildly. Mr. Bonner is the most seriously sick.

Mr. Bonner informed Health Officer Snowberger that he would look to him to see that his grain and fruit crops do not suffer while he and his family are under quarantine.

Mr. Snowberger promised to do so and at once asked some of the neighbors to cut the wheat crop this week. They agreed to do so.

The timothy crop does not need to be cut until the middle of next month probably. Mr. Bonner's orchards have been sprayed and are in excellent condition, so that they will not likely deteriorate during the next few weeks. They will, however, be looked after.

One of the state constabulary will act as guard at the Bonner house.

HEN KILLED COPPERHEAD

Constable Jacob Wile of Mont Alto, is the owner of a fine game hen, which is the mother of ten small chicks. One morning shortly after feeding her brood, Mr. Wile heard the hen making quite a fuss, so much that he went to see what the trouble was. Upon reaching the scene he found that the hen had killed a large copperhead snake that had been trying to capture one of the chicks. The hen was bitten in the neck by the snake, and is much swollen.

A Missouri farmer broke a span of mules of the runaway habit (rather, it was the first time, and he did it to keep them from acquiring the habit) by keeping them in the open and letting them run till they got tired. He then kept them running for about four miles after they wanted to stop and then put them on a stiff piece of plowing until sundown. He says that mules that are given this kind of dose when they show the first symptoms of the runaway tendency never require a second lesson.

With Men in Good Shape They Should Show Their Heels to Foreigners. Hans Holmer to Run in Number of Races—Quail May Journey Abroad.

The other side of the pond seems to have a great attraction for several of our athletes. Not satisfied with cleaning up in this country, they are anxious to go abroad and add more scalps to their belts. At least six of America's best amateurs and professionals will be competing abroad this summer.

Mel W. Sheppard, the world's greatest amateur middle distance runner, has mapped out a strenuous campaign for the year and is hopeful of adding a number of new records to his already long list.

If his plans go through Sheppard intends to sail for Scotland July 5 and return Aug. 15. The Scots hold three sets of games during the middle of July and the first part of August. They have invited athletes from all over the world to try for the prizes. The only other American besides Sheppard who will probably compete in that country is Harry Gissing.

Sheppard will try for the prizes in the half mile events. He believes that if he is in old time shape he ought to have no trouble in breezing home a winner in each.

After the Olympic games in 1908, instead of coming home with the rest of the bunch, Shep stole over to Scotland and won a number of races.

Ever since the Scots have been at Shep to compete again in their games.

There is no doubt that America's reputation for producing the greatest short distance athletes will be made plainer with Sheppard and Gissing matching their speed against the best of Europe in the Scotland tournament.

Over there they don't think we really have the very best, but when they see Mel crossing the tape ahead of their champions they will have a better opinion of us.

Tex Ramsdell, the crack sprinter of the University of Pennsylvania, is thinking seriously of making another visit to England to compete in a number of events. Tex showed his heels to a number of Englishmen while abroad last summer. The Penn star will be accompanied by Gwyn Henry, the Texas speed marvel.

The professional runners will also have their innings abroad. If plans do not fall several American distance men will journey abroad in search of the loose currency that is supposed to be lying around over there. Hans Holmer will run several match races with the best runners to be procured. One of his first races will be with several fast men at the full Marathon distance, the race taking place on the Isle of Man the last week in June. In this race Bonchard, the Frenchman, will be Holmer's chief opponent.

Holmer has arranged for a couple of races in France and Germany. The Germans are as fever heat over foot running, over 1,400 amateurs turning out for one cross country run. Bill Quail, the greatest of all professional distance runners, is also thinking of taking a trip abroad. Bill has received several offers from the promoters on the other side of the Atlantic to meet their stars, and it is more than likely he will accept.

A SIGN WHICH OUR TOWN COULD IMITATE.

Names of Denver's Streets Can Be Seen by Day or Night.

The old wooden street signs nailed to telephone and telegraph poles are rapidly being discarded for combination iron poles and signs and for ornamental bronze signs in Denver.

Some of the signs are in the form of long narrow boxes, lighted inside by means of eight candle power incandescent lamps. The light is reflected to the signs from the interior, the letters being on a background of mica.

The illuminated letters can be seen for quite a distance and are arranged so that they can be removed without injury to the standard in case it should be desired to change the name. The lamp is said to be so arranged that it cannot well be disturbed by mischief makers, but can be removed for cleaning or repair.

THE WORK OF THE PEOPLE.

York, Neb., Has Park Which Was Bought by Inhabitants.

York, Neb., is a little city about 100 miles due west from Lincoln and in the rolling lands to the south of the river Platte. It has fields and has always had much of green fields around it. Some dozen years ago it boasted, in a shamefaced way, of an area of nearly thirteen acres, says E. T. Hartman in American City.

Presently a civic streak was struck in the body politic of York, and leaders sprang up to say that something should be done and that the old pasture offered a good opportunity. A mass meeting was called, and the idea was laid before the people. The "cost" thrust his head among them in the shape of a hirsute head of patriarchal cut and croaked as usual, "But where is the money to come from?" He was told that the leaders had secured an option at a fair price, that there would be no touching of the community purse and that the money would come from the people, a dollar from each citizen making all possible. The ogre retired, and the people went to work.

The land was bought and a landscape architect employed to develop it.

And the people learned to use what they had provided. Tramping, picnicking and even camping became the vogue, for any reasonable use is allowed so long as the people scatter no rubbish.

Streets as Necessary as Arteries.

As the arteries are to the human system, so are the streets to the physical well being of a city, says A. T. Erwin in the American City. A well planned city is a highly developed organism with one member or district devoted to places of living, another to manufacturing, another to mercantile pursuits, etc. A ready means of communication between these various members is a fundamental requisite. The street provides the means of circulation, and any factor which checks or impedes its flow is a serious menace to the public good.

There are many who think that the mapping out of streets is about all there is to city planning and that the laying of a sidewalk and paving represents the sum total of a street problem. That these are fundamental no one will deny, but there are other important considerations which should enter in which affect both convenience and beauty.

The city comes into possession of its streets in one of three ways—through public usage during a stated period (adverse possession), by condemnation and by dedication. Probably 50 per cent of our streets in the middle west have become public property through the last method. A street so dedicated involves two interests, the one being public, the other proprietary. In too many "additions" the latter has been the active party, and plans are shaped too largely from the personal and pecuniary point of view. It becomes the duty of the city officials, acting as the trustees of the people, to guide and mold these plans in the interest of the public.

While striving for the almost unattainable do not depreciate that which you have already attained.

Biting Off One's Nose.

ROAD TO SUCCESS WITH HOLSTEINS.

The Holstein cow stands today as the greatest milk producer, the greatest butter producer and the greatest cheese producer in the world and makes the best beef of any of the dairy breeds. I find in looking over the herds at fairs and elsewhere a chance for improvement in individuality and breeding, especially in keeping the square udders, writes M. S. Nye of Preble, N. Y., in the Holstein-Friesian Register.

The feeding and developing are almost as important as the breeding. My way is to take the calf away from its mother when it is a few hours old, feed about two quarts of its mother's milk per day until a week old and one-half pint of warm water added to the milk. Each feed after that gain slowly and give the calf some milk until he is at least four months old. Would prefer a grain ration of oatmeal, cornmeal and wheat midds, equal parts, scalded. I would rather have one than any prepared calf meal I have ever tried. Keep the calf growing and in fine condition until she has her first calf at two years and three months and be sure she is in fine condition at that time so she will make a fine udder and develop large milk veins. Feed her liberally so she will milk at least eleven months and then have a few weeks' rest before freshening a second time. If she is well

According to the scale of points adopted by the Holstein association, an ideal Holstein cow should have nice square udders, well placed teats, all hanging level; forward quarters fully as well developed as the hind quarters and as straight as a line; broad hips, broad back of hips, deep bodied, fine over the shoulders, long fine neck, broad forehead, a full bright eye, hide not too thick or too thin, but medium and soft; hair soft and silky; milk veins large and long, with forks and double extension. The illustration shows a pure bred young Holstein of good form.

enored for until this time don't worry about her not making a good cow if she is bred right. I think a cow ought to have at least eight weeks' rest. Get her in fine condition; don't be afraid of milk fever. Get a milk fever outfit and watch her. I think breeders and dairymen ought to bear in mind that the last feed given a cow is where the profit comes in.

Mix your own feed; don't use any stock food or medicated salt or anything of the kind. If your cows are sick give medicine. If well give good, clean food, well cured hay, silage, roots and pasture.

When stabled give them a good, warm, well lighted, well ventilated stable, a good bed and good water all ways before them. Give them a few hours of exercise every day except in bad weather. I feed silage, hay and grass and roots liberally, and grain except in flush of feed, just enough to call them into the stable.

My grain ration is two-thirds bran and midds, one-third distillery and oil meal or hominy. When making an A. R. O. record I have a mixture of four parts of gluten, four parts distillery, four parts oatmeal, two parts hominy. I find that with the Holstein cow bred and developed in this way it is very easy to have an entire herd of milking cows, many of them heifers, averaging over 10,000 pounds of milk in one year. My herd of milking cows have averaged each year over 10,000 pounds of milk for the last fourteen years.

Scours In Pigs.

Scours in pigs is readily overcome, says an authority, by giving each a raw egg and five to ten grains of subnitrate of bismuth twice daily in addition to changing the food of the sow and mixing coppers in her food. Where this does not promptly cure give a dose of castor oil, shaken well in milk. Set right all errors in diet and sanitation and give the pigs dry, sunny, well ventilated quarters.—Farm Journal.

Cause of Azoturia.

Azoturia comes from overfeeding idle horses. Save feed and horses, too, by reducing the ration when they are not working.

Dairy Pointers.

Nowhere in the breeding of live stock does "blood" count for more than in building up a dairy herd.

There is likely to be something wrong with a cow that a good dairyman offers for sale at a reasonable price.

"Like produces like," and it pays in dairy work to take into consideration the ancestors of the sires and dams of the dairy herd.

The value of a cow is determined not so much by the amount of milk she gives in a day as the amount she produces in a year.

Where there is no pure bred bull in the neighborhood and the dairyman wishes to grow the best it will pay him well to own his own male.

Stop Look Listen

The Chautauqua Demands You. You Need It and Your Children Need It and Your Town Needs It.

The merchant, professional man, banker, or member of any other calling, the retired farmer, the fathers, the mothers, the students, the farmers, any or all classes that cannot see the great benefit to a community of such an entertainment for ten days, looks at things from a badly warped point of vision.

It's the best summer school course offered in the world. The information gained there, the inspiration received from those who have done things, the opportunity to see and hear men and women of note, all these things are worth to the growing boy or girl ten times—yes, many times the price of a ticket.
